Methodology

The STOXX Canada 60 Index provides a blue-chip representation of the 60 largest Canadian companies from among the 11 ICB industries in terms of free-float market cap. It is an industry-neutral index and is derived from the STOXX Canada 240 Index.

First, the largest companies belonging to each ICB industry from the STOXX Canada 240 Index are shortlisted to form an initial selection list. The 60 largest companies from the selection list are then selected to form the index.

All components are weighted according to their free-float market cap. A capping procedure is employed to ensure that the index follows a sector-neutral approach with respect to the STOXX Canada 240 Index: cap factors are assigned in order to ensure that the weight of each ICB industry within the STOXX Canada 60 Index represents the weight of the same industry within the STOXX Canada 240 Index.

BACKTESTED PERFORMANCE

This document contains index performance data based on backtesting, i.e. calculations of how the index might have performed prior to launch if it had existed using the same index methodology and based on historical constituents. Backtested performance information is purely hypothetical and is provided in this document solely for information purposes. Backtested performance does not represent actual performance and should not be interpreted as an indication of actual performance.

CUSTOMIZATION

The index can be used as a basis for the definition of STOXX Customized Indices, which can be tailored to specific client or mandate needs. STOXX offers customization in almost unlimited forms for example in terms of component selection, weighting schemes and personalized calculation methodologies.

³ Net dividend yield is calculated as net return index return minus price index return
